

Executive Director, Harriet Beecher Stowe Center

Following the departure of the current Executive Director who is retiring after nearly 20 years, the Harriet Beecher Stowe Center seeks a new leader who can build upon the organization's recognized assets to increasingly connect the Center's mission with contemporary issues. The new director should be an experienced museum or historical site professional, with relevant knowledge of and experience with organizations like house museums and research facilities serving both the general public and scholars from around the world.

For more information and details on how to apply, please visit:
<http://tsne.org/executive-director-harriet-beecher-stowe-center>

This national search is being conducted by TSNE MissionWorks with Transition Consultant Michael Negrón. For questions, please contact etpostings@tsne.org.